

Pooh Jeter goes to Seville

2009-07-24 18:27

Cajasol Seville agreed terms with american point guard Pooh Jeter (1983, 1'79) for the next season. The player is in Las Vegas, playing with Portland Trail Blazers the local Summer League. Jeter had a great season last year, although he could not prevent his team ViveMenorca from relegation.

Last year he averaged 16'3 ppg, 3'1 apg with a total 14'5 efficiency rate.

There were some other options, like Demond Mallett and Earl Calloway, but in the end, Juan Llaneza, team manager of Cajasol, travelled to Las Vegas to sign Jeter.

Moreover, Cajasol is trying to sign lithuanian power forward Paulius Jankunas. The player is still waiting for an offer from an Euroleague Club, despite he knows he would have a more important role playing in Seville.